

Face

Better face a danger once than be always in
Don't cut off your nose to spite your face
An empty purse fills the face with wrinkles
The face is the index of the heart
Face to face the truth comes out
A fair face is half a fortune
A fair face may hide a foul heart
A gift with a kind face is double grace
The joy of the heart makes the face merry
A man without a smiling face must not open a shop
One hand washes another and both the face
Monday's child is fair of face
Do not cut off your nose to spite your face
Une face de carême
Il fera face à tout
Ce portrait est pris de face
Jouer à pile ou face
Il le regarda bien en face
