

YanYu.lol

قاعدة بيانات الامثال والحكم الشعبية

His

An ass is known by his ears
A bad workman always blames his tools
The camel going to seek horns lost his ears
The devil can cite scripture for his purpose
The dog returns to his vomit
The efforts of the poor man are his tears
An englishman's house is his castle
Every cock crows on his own dunghill
Every dog has his day
Every jack must have his jill
Every man has his faults
Every man has his price
Every man has his weak side
Every man has the defects of his own virtues
Every man is a king in his own house
Every man is his own worst enemy
Every man is the architect of his own fortune
Every man is the son of his own work
Every one puts his fault on the times
Everyone is his own doctor
Everyone to his taste
A fool and his money soon parted

A fool lives in his own paradise

A fool's tongue is long enough to cut his own throat

Give the devil his due

Give the slave a rod and he'll beat his master

God gives his wrath by weight but his mercy without measure

Happy is he that is happy in his children

He cannot speak well that cannot hold his tongue

He does not believe who does not live according to his belief

He doubles his gift who gives it in time

He is above his enemies that despises their injuries

He loses nothing who keeps god for his friend

He that boasts of his own knowledge proclaims his ignorance

He that brings up his son to nothing breeds a thief

He that hath not silver in his purse should have silk in his tongue

He that keeps his secret gains his object

He that speaks ill of his wife dishonours himself

He that stumbles twice over one stone deserves to break his shins

He that tells his secret is another's servant

He that tells his wife news is but newly married

He who risks his life is blameworthy even if he escapes with it

He who taught me one letter i am his slave

He whose father is judge goes safe to his trial

An honest man's word is as good as his bond

If each would sweep before his own door we should have a clean city

If the lad go to the well against his will either the can will break or the water will spell

If you deal with a fox think of his tricks

If you pay not a servant his wages he will pay himself

It is a foolish sheep that makes the wolf his confessor

It is the height of merit in a man that his faults can be numbered

Job was not miserable in his suffering as he was happy in his patience

The labourer is worthy of his hire

The leopard cannot change his spots

Let the cobbler stick to his last

A man is a lion in his own cause

Man is blind in his own cause

A man is the architect of his own fortunes

A man knows his companion in a long way and a little inn

The man who does not demand his right is buried alive

A man will never change his mind if he has no mind to change

A man's house is his castle

A man's studies pass into his character

No man is a hero to his valet

No man is content with his lot

No man loveth his fetters be they made of gold

No man ought to be judge in his own cause

One carries his chin another feels its weight

A prophet is not without honour save in his own country and in his own house

Surely the worth of man lies in two of his smallest parts his heart and his tongue

Talk of the angel and you will hear his wings

Three things drive a man out of his house smoke rain and a scolding wife

The way to a man's heart is through his stomach

Wealth is not his who gets it but his who enjoys it

What is a workman without his tools

When the tree is fallen every one runs to it with his axe

Who repairs not his gutters repairs his whole house

A wise man changes his mind a fool never

The wolf may lose his teeth but never his nature

A bad workman blames his tools

A carpenter is known by his chips

The cobbler to his last and the gunner to his linstock

Every cock will crow upon his own dunghill

He that complies against his will is of his own opinion still

The devil can quote scripture for his own ends

The devil looks after his own

The devil makes his christmas pies of lawyers' tongues and clerks' fingers

Whosoever draws his sword against the prince must throw the scabbard away

An englishman's word is his bond

Every man to his taste

Every man to his trade

The eye of a master does more work than both his hands

A fool and his money are soon parted

What is got over the devil's back is spent under his belly

The higher the monkey climbs the more he shows his tail

Every jack has his jill

Jack is as good as his master

No one should be judge in his own cause

You should know a man seven years before you stir his fire

A man who is his own lawyer has a fool for his client

The leopard does not change his spots

Needles and pins needles and pins when a man marries his trouble begins

A prophet is not without honour save in his own country

The rich man has his ice in the summer and the poor man gets his in the winter

Everyone stretches his legs according to the length of his coverlet

If every man would sweep his own doorstep the city would soon be clean

He that will thrive must first ask his wife

A wilful man must have his way