YanYu.lol

قاعدة بيانات الامثال والحكم الشعبية

Its

Eloquence hath its charm  An eloquent rooster crows within its egg shell  Every flow must have its ebb  Every heart has its own ache  Every horse thinks its own back heaviest  Everything has its proper time and place  Everything has its proper time and place  Everything is good in its season  Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover  The bread never falls but on its buttered side	Catch your bear before you sell its skin
Every flow must have its ebb  Every heart has its own ache  Every horse thinks its own back heaviest  Everything has its proper time and place  Everything is good in its season  Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Eloquence hath its charm
Every horse thinks its own back heaviest  Everything has its proper time and place  Everything is good in its season  Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach	An eloquent rooster crows within its egg shell
Everything has its proper time and place  Everything is good in its season  Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that solls its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Every flow must have its ebb
Everything has its proper time and place  Everything is good in its season  Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Every heart has its own ache
Everything is good in its season  Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Every horse thinks its own back heaviest
Give the bow to its maker  Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Everything has its proper time and place
Haste trips over its own heels  It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Everything is good in its season
It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest  One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Give the bow to its maker
One carries his chin another feels its weight  A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Haste trips over its own heels
A place for everything and everything in its place  The rotten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	It is a foolish bird that soils its own nest
Ther otten apple injures its neighbours  There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	One carries his chin another feels its weight
There is no garden without its weeds  A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	A place for everything and everything in its place
A tree is known by its fruit  The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	The rotten apple injures its neighbours
The value of the home lies in its residents  Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	There is no garden without its weeds
Virtue is its own reward  You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	A tree is known by its fruit
You cannot judge a book by its cover  An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	The value of the home lies in its residents
An army marches on its stomach  You can not tell a book by its cover	Virtue is its own reward
You can not tell a book by its cover	You cannot judge a book by its cover
	An army marches on its stomach
The bread never falls but on its buttered side	You can not tell a book by its cover
	The bread never falls but on its buttered side

Every bullet has its billet
A chain is no stronger than its weakest link
A clever hawk hides its claws
The dog returns to its vomit
Every elm has its man
Every herring must hang by its own gill
It's an ill bird that fouls its own nest
The kumara does not speak of its own sweetness
Every land has its own law
A lie is halfway round the world before the truth has got its boots on
The rotten apple injures its neighbour
A stream cannot rise above its source
The tree is known by its fruit
Every tub must stand on its own bottom
It is a wise child that knows its own father

2023 © Copyright: v.0.0.0.424 YanYu.lol