

Often

A crow is never the whiter for washing itself often
Half the truth is often a great lie
Ill news is too often true
Little and often fills the purse
A little body often harbours a great soul
One pair of heels is often worth two pairs of hands
The pitcher goes so often to the well that it is broken at last
Half the truth is often a whole lie
The pitcher will go to the well once too often