

Please

He that all men will please shall never find ease

It is hard to please all parties

Little things please little minds

You can not please everyone

Please your eye and plague your heart