

Promise

Be slow to promise but quick to perform

The day obliterates the promise of the night

A promise delayed is justice deferred

A promise is debt that we must not forget

The promise of the night is rubbed with butter which melts away when the day shines on it

Chose promise chose due