

Break

Better bend than break
Customs are hard to break
He that stumbles twice over one stone deserves to break his shins
If it were not for hope the heart would break
If the lad go to the well against his will either the can will break or the water will spill
Hard words break no bones
Obey orders if you break owners
Sticks and stones may break my bones but words will never hurt me
Never give a sucker an even break