

YanYu.lol

Popular proverbs and wisdoms database

Half

Believe not all that you see nor half what you hear

Correspondence is half a presence

A disease known is half cured

A fair face is half a fortune

A fault confessed is half redressed

The first blow is half the battle

Half a loaf is better than no bread

Half the truth is often a great lie

Half the world knows not how the other half lives

Six of one and half a dozen of the other

Well begun is half done

Believe nothing of what you hear and only half of what you see

Two boys are half a boy and three boys are no boy at all

The half is better than the whole

One half of the world does not know how the other half lives

Half the truth is often a whole lie

He that has an ill name is half hanged